Chamber closing office at the end of September

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

A lack of funds will force the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce to suspend day-to-day operations at the end of September.

According to a press release issued last Friday, a resolution to close the Chamber office and stop activities was passed during a board of directors meeting on August 15.

The Chamber has been struggling financially ever since the County reduced its 1991 contribution by more than 50 per cent.

The decision to close the office was not unexpected. At a meeting with County Council in July, Chamber manager Robyn Jarvis told councillors that, even with reduced activities, the organization would run out of money by November.

On August 24 a special meeting was held involving representatives of the Chamber, the county and Victoria-Haliburton MPP Dennis Drainville, to try to resolve the Chamber's crisis.

At that meeting, County Warden Carol Puffer offered to provide the Chamber with $9,000 of county money if the province would match that amount, allowing the Chamber to operate until the end of the year.

In an interview on Friday, Chamber president Lyn Stevens said Drainville is continuing to investigate the possibility of securing provincial funds to keep the office operating, but the board of directors can't keep the office running without some assurance of assistance.

"There is no guarantee any money will be available," said Stevens. The Chamber would need the combination to funds from both the county and the province to avoid closing, she said.

By closing the office on September 30, and laying off the manager and the secretary, Stevens said the Chamber will be able to meet financial obligations for leased equipment and accounts owing to creditors. Collection of accounts receivable will also continue.

"We got through the summer, but we don't have the money to continue," she said. "We tried everything. We went to the members for money and we went to the municipalities." The only two municipalities to provide assistance were Dysart, with an offer for $5,000, and Stanhope, which kicked in another $2,500.

In addition to closing the office, the Chamber will also stop several on-going activities including work on the 1992 Travel Guide, bringing Ride for Sight back to Haliburton County and developing a bid for the Ontario Small Urban Municipalities convention.

Spray agreement reached

by Susan Grober

The battle against the voracious gypsy moth caterpillar will continue next year, as a new one-year spray program agreement has been reached between the Ministry of Natural Resources and the Gypsy Moth Management Committee.

But private landowners will have to shell out much more money than the present flat rate of $6 per acre to protect their trees.

Under the new agreement, private landowners will pay a $60 flat fee for spraying up to three acres of land. A sliding scale will be used for additional acreage, depending on the size of a property.

The additional fees are $15 an acre for four to 15 acres; $10 an acre for 16 to 50 acres; and $1 an acre for 51 or more acres.

This cost-sharing formula proposed by the ministry was accepted by the management committee at a meeting in Peterborough last Thursday.

"I'm glad that we reached an agreement, because time was getting to be a critical factor," says Dysart Reeve Bill Davis, who is chairman of the management committee, an association of 17 district, regional and county municipalities, and one First Nation in southern Ontario.

"If we waited much longer, it could botch up the spray program."

Davis's relief is measured with disappointment that the management committee couldn't convince the ministry to charge private landowners less money for the program.

The ministry previously rejected the management committee's counter offer that (more one page 10)

Three dead in shooting spree

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

A shooting incident near Norland Friday night has left three people dead and another injured.

Cobocok OPP say the incident was a double murder and suicide.

Dead are William Leslie Harrison, age 50, Diane Patricia Harrison, age 49, and Ronald Bray, age 55.

A fourth person, Hanford David Trites, age 43, was shot in the hand when he went to the house to investigate the noise. His injuries are not life-threatening and he is currently recovering in a Toronto hospital.

The house where the shooting took place is located on Highway 503 west of Norland, across from the Rockcliffe Trailer Park near Head Lake.

Neighbours say William Harrison entered the house at about 11 p.m. Friday night, shot his estranged wife Diane Harrison and her boyfriend Ronald Bray. He later turned the gun on himself.

OPP officers from the criminal investigation branch from headquarters in Toronto are heading up the investigation. Autopsies were performed Sunday morning.

This house on Highway 503 was the site of Friday's murder/suicide.

Meeting will be test of tax coalition's credibility

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Next Friday's public meeting sponsored by the Taxpayers' Coalition of Haliburton County, could make or break the effort to influence local tax increases.

Organizers say the meeting will be the first gauge of the coalition's popular support among residents of the county.

"It's going to be a real test of our credibility," says Minden resident Gary Kenney, who has been spearheading the tax watch with Haliburton resident John Beachli. "It going to hurt us if we end up with an empty room and it will help us if it's over-flowing."

"We need to know that people are willing to take the time to come to a meeting and feel the issue is important enough."

The meeting is being held at 8 p.m. in the Haliburton Legion and will feature a presentation by George Lansens who successfully organized a tax revolt in Blenheim, Ontario and is now the chairman of the province-wide tax coalition.

Lansens will talk about his experiences fighting property taxes in Blenheim, will address some of the problems Haliburton County is facing, and will also discuss the efforts being made at the provincial level.

After the presentation, the floor will be opened to questions and comments from the audience.

"We want to get a reading from people about what they think we should be doing," says Kenney. "There seems to be some misunderstanding about what we represent."

The coalition is claiming a membership of 1,500 people and Kenney says that number is a conservative estimate.

Many lake associations have pledged their support to the coalition's cause and Kenney says if all the individual members of those associations are taken into account, the coalition is representing closer to 7,000 residents.

The coalition formed earlier in the year after the county passed a budget with a 35 per cent increase in the levy.

Since that time, Kenney and Beachli have met with representatives of the county in an unsuccessful attempt to have the budget reduced, and have written a column in the two local newspapers expressing their concerns about county expenditures.

So far, the actions of the coalition have been coordinated by a small group of organizers and Friday's meeting will be the first opportunity for supporters to gather in one place.

"This is the first time we have to prove ourselves," says Kenney. "We don't want to soft-stroke the importance of this meeting."

The coalition's next major effort will be aimed at pushing tax-related issues to the top of the agenda during the November municipal elections.

A questionnaire will be sent to candidates which will hone in on specific fiscal concerns and a report card will be issued evaluating the platform of each candidate.

Kenney says he would like to see a candidates' meeting held for people seeking a seat on county council where voters could direct questions at potential reeves and deputy-reeves.

- Among the reforms the coalition is pushing for are:
- Public access to budget documents before they are passed;
- Recorded votes on all money matters;
- County restructuring to reduce duplication of services;
- The right to accept or reject costly provincial schemes and;
- Less administrative costs.

CUPE food drive extended

2787 Minden Hospital

Now more than ever the Minden Food Cupboard will rely on the generosity of the community.

The temporary delay in the delivery of government cheques, due to disrupted postal service, will cause the demands made on the food bank to escalate.

The senior pensioners, the disabled, the unemployed and others who depend on a government supplement face a crisis situation.

The Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) Food Drive will be ongoing for an additional week to ensure that the Cupboard will have sufficient supplies to see this crisis through.

Bins for donations of food and non-perishables can be found at; Dello's IGA, Easton's Valumart and the Minden Legion. Cash donations can be made at; Minden Hospital, Minden IDA, Minden Legion and The Beer Store.

As a community, we can make a difference by pulling together to help those less fortunate than ourselves. Show your community spirit and give to the CUPE Food Drive.

Charges laid after dispute on Spar Lake

A dispute between neighbours has resulted in one person being charged with mischief over $1000.

The charge was laid following an incident August 25 on Spar Lake. According to the police, as a result of the dispute, four windows in one cottage and the windshield and rear window of a vehicle were broken. The hood of the car was also damaged.

Charged in the case is 29 year old Elizabeth Lacalamita of Toronto. She is scheduled to appear in court October 2.

Police estimate damage at $1200. The authorities say the dispute between the adjacent property owners had been simmering for a number of years.

OLD FASHIONED SERVICE IS A PRICELESS COMPONENT OF EVERYTHING WE SELL

Dysart resident starts campaign

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Dysart resident Jack Cox got an early start on the campaign trail last week when he announced his candidacy for the position of deputy-reeve.

Cox was introduced at the annual meeting of the Lake Kashagawigamog property owners association along with Grant Ploord and Jean Anthon, both of whom are running for council seats in Anson, Hindon and Minden.

Although he just retired to the county in June after 32 years as a civil engineer, Cox lived in Haliburton County 20 years ago when he was employed as the county's first engineer.

He served in that capacity from 1971 until 1975 and kept his home on Lake Kashagawigamog for weekend use after he left the county's employ.

Now that he is retired, Cox says he has the time to try to represent the ratepayers of Dysart et al.

He is seeking the position of deputy-reeve because he believes the municipality needs a stronger voice at county council.

Cox has also worked for the County of York and, for the past 10 years, has served as the municipal engineer in the township of East Gwillimbury.

Minden man surrenders

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

A Minden man wanted for armed robbery has turned himself in to the OPP detachment in Coboconk.

Thomas William George, 26, surrendered to police last Tuesday, three weeks after a warrant for his arrest was issued in connection with the August 3 armed robbery of a Fenelon Falls Golf Course.

George appeared in a Lindsay courtroom on Thursday for a bail hearing and was released on a recognizance. His next court appearance is scheduled for September 23.

A second man, also wanted for armed robbery as a result of the same hold-up, is currently being held in the Dade County Jail near Miami, Florida.

Ronald Martin Goulet, 26, of Norland was arrested by Miami police on August 14 in connection with unspecified criminal activity. He is scheduled to appear in court today (Tuesday).

Goulet was out on a weekend pass from the Bath Institution at Millhaven at the time of the robbery and he is also wanted by the OPP for being unlawfully at large.

On August 3, two males broke into the Byrnell Golf club were robbed at knife point and the two men stole cash, liquor and the victim's car. There were no injuries.

A will to live

Karlynn Jackson has defied the odds by surviving until her first birthday

by Susan Grober

Whenever Sharron Jackson takes her bubbly baby, Karlynn, along to the store, bank, or hairdresser, people always comment how the smiling girl is so full of life and laughter.

But few realize the great struggle little Karlynn has been through to survive, and that it's a miracle she will have her first birthday this month.

Karlynn was born prematurely, when her mother was only 23 weeks into her pregnancy.

Doctors didn't give Jackson or her husband, Gord, much hope for their daughter's survival.

"The doctors at Mount Sinai didn't expect her to live more than 72 hours," says Jackson. "Most babies who are that premature have brain bleeds within 72 hours."

Born on September 20, 1990, Karlynn wasn't due until four months later, on January 13, 1991.

Because she was born so early, Karlynn's body wasn't yet fully formed. Her eyes were fused shut, and she had no ears or nipples.

"It was kind of scary to look at her," says her mother. "She looked like ET. She was the length of a ruler, exactly 12 inches long. She had a little, tiny head, the size of a Barbie doll's."

Today, Karlynn is a happy baby with a radiant smile. The colour of her bright eyes change from green to blue, and her hair is just growing out as a pale shade of blonde, after being continuously shaved for treatments.

She just started to crawl a month ago, and is anxious to learn how to walk. She also sucks her thumb in favour of a soother, which she always spits out.

Still, at 13 pounds, Karlynn is small for her age. Her lungs are weak, and her back isn't strong enough to allow her to sit up on her own.

Karlynn is a fighter, as the story of her battle for life will attest.

Difficult birth

In the kitchen of her Stanhope home, Sharron Jackson sits surrounded by papers, photographs, and mementoes documenting her daughter's five-month stay in hospital.

Formerly residents of Toronto, Jackson and her husband recently moved to their cottage on Peach Lake, because the fresh air is better for their daughter.

Unfortunately, Gord Jackson must still keep part-time residence at the couple's one-bedroom apartment in Etobicoke, where he works as the manager of a Jeep dealership.

After their daughter's birth, the couple didn't get her home from hospital until February 9, 1990.

"We were lucky we had her home for Valentine's Day, just as we prayed for," says Jackson.

Karlynn weighed 635 grams at birth. When a tube was used to drain fluid off her lungs, she weighed only 400 grams (about two ounces less than a pound).

"Her lowest weight was 390 grams," says Jackson. "And I cried. I wouldn't let them write it on her chart."

Jackson didn't expect she would have complications with the birth of her first child. She was coming along fine until she began having severe pain after a few months of pregnancy.

Then, 21-and-a-half weeks into her pregnancy, she started bleeding and was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

There Jackson was kept in bed on such an angle that she was practically upside-down. "They did it to keep the fetus in longer, so she'd develop."

Jackson only lasted a week before she began to choke and bleed. She was dilated to four centimetres.

"The night nurse got nervous, so she called Mount Sinai and asked them to take me. But they said they only take mothers at 26 weeks, so she lied and told them I was at 24."

Jackson was transferred to Mount Sinai Hospital on September 17. "I lasted a few more days, and at one minute to six (a.m.), Karlynn was born," she says.

"At first, they couldn't find her heartbeat, and said they would have to abort. I told them I could feel the baby move, and the intern believed me, so he and a nurse finally found a strong heartbeat."

Even though Karlynn's head was in the birth canal at first, she turned when the time finally arrived for delivery, and she was born breech, buttocks first, with her body folded in half.

"All of a sudden the doctor (Dr. Suen) handed this little thing to a man who looked like he was wearing a spacesuit," says Jackson. It took that second doctor three hours to resuscitate the baby, with the help of three nurses.

Life under glass

After birth, Karlynn was hooked up to countless lines, tubes and IVs, and placed in an Isolette. This incubator provided constant controlled heat and oxygen.

"It was a little glass house," says Jackson. "The doctors called it a window on the womb."

Karlynn's body was frail, and so thin you could see her liver through her skin. As the months passed by, she grew and developed inside the Isolette. "I'd fold her ears back so she wouldn't look like Dumbo the elephant," Jackson says, now able to laugh at the thought.

The intensive care unit (ICU) where Karlynn stayed holds 30 babies. In that unit, (more on page 5)

'She's a fighter': Through operations, tests, injections drugs and isolation, Karlynn survived a baby would die once a week, says Jackson. "It was awful, because you're always praying with all your might that your baby will live."

Jackson was allowed to visit the ICU whenever she wanted, and used to be at the hospital 14 hours a day.

"I had to put on a gown, scrub my arms and hands, and wear a mask over my face," she says. "There was a rocking chair beside the Isolette, but she was so small I had to stand to look at her."

Because Karlynn was living in a controlled setting, Jackson and her husband weren't allowed to touch her.

"I was just so upset, because I never got to hold my baby," she says. "We fought with the hospital. Finally, after five days, they let me put my hands through this little round door to put a Q-Tip with water on it around her mouth. I was thrilled just to do that."

"My husband wouldn't do it, though. He was scared to touch her. It took him about a month and a half before he got up the nerve."

Karlynn constantly had a ventilator in her mouth to provide oxygen. "So we could never hear her cry," says Jackson. "But, even though she had this big thing in her mouth, she would turn her head and struggle. The nurses said, 'This is a strong one. She's a fighter.'"

Karlynn was given many different drugs for various ailments.

Between October and January, she underwent four blood transfusions.

And, because her heart valve wouldn't close, she was sent to The Hospital for Sick Children on October 20 for an operation where a suture was placed around the hole, and pulled closed like a drawstring purse.

"It was supposed to be a simple operation," says Jackson. "Karlynn took the operation well, so the surgeon left after about an hour. But then she went into cardiac arrest, and was gone for 15 minutes. They had to use shock treatments to bring her back."

Because Jackson and her husband were praying in the hospital's chapel, they didn't realize what was going on with their daughter.

"Finally, the doctors told us she would have six hours to live, and that she would be brain damaged if her brain didn't get enough oxygen. I said, 'This baby will surprise you.' Sure enough, she did."

Karlynn also developed problems with her eyes, because she was on oxygen for so long. Eyes are graded on a one to four basis, with four being total blindness.

Tests performed in October found Karlynn's eyes were Grade 3, and deteriorating rapidly, so a type of surgery new to Canada, called cryotherapy, had to be performed at Sick Kids on December 18.

Usually such surgery would only be performed on one eye at a time, in case the procedure is unsuccessful.

"Because of her cardiac arrest before, I told them to do both, because I'd rather have a live, blind baby than no baby," says Jackson.

After the cryotherapy, which was performed under general anesthesia, Karlynn had a bronchospasm and was placed on ventilation to provide oxygen.

She returned to Mount Sinai the next day, and a follow-up test done later determined that a disease was forming in her left eye.

The cryotherapy had to be repeated in January, but Jackson refused to have her daughter shipped-off to Sick Kids again.

"I felt like she'd been through enough already, so I fought and fought with them," she says. Finally, they gave in, "and now she's leading the way for future surgery at Mount Sinai."

Instead of putting her out during the surgery, doctors pumped Karlynn full of morphine and another drug, says Jackson. "Her body swelled to twice its size because of that."

It's hard to believe that such a small body could undergo so much surgery and drugs and treatments.

"She was like a little bird, so small and folded up," says Jackson. "I could hold her whole body in my hand. Her head was the size of a walnut. And I thought, 'She's beautiful. I want her to live.'"

Aching arms

Although they could stick their hands inside the Isolette, Karlynn's parents couldn't really touch her for the first three months since she was born.

As any mother can understand, Jackson was aching to hold her daughter. She and her husband had their first chance on Christmas Day.

"They let us dress her up in an outfit, and hold her for an hour," says Jackson, wiping back tears at the memory. "I think that's the hardest and cruelest thing, not being able to hold your own child. And now the hospital is working on changing their rules, because it's very important for bonding."

Although Jackson couldn't bond with Karlynn by holding her, the mother and daughter had a link through Jackson's practice of reading storybooks to her from day one.

"I must have read Goldilocks and the Three Bears about five times a day," she says. "When I wasn't there, the nurses would read to her. Then I taped myself reading the story, and we had a little tape recorder with speakers to put right inside the Isolette. So if Karlynn would have a spell at 2 a.m., or whenever I wasn't there, the nurses would play the tape."

Gord Jackson used to work 12-hour days, so he could never be in the hospital as much as he would have liked. But the hospitals made concessions for him.

Even when the Jacksons couldn't be at the hospital, their families and friends would always be on hand to help out.

Karlynn's nurses were always very attentive. During her initial weeks in hospital, she was attended to one-on-one with a nurse who held a 12-hour shift.

However, this attention is not the same as the intimacy a baby needs from his parents.

Jackson is a firm believer that babies respond to their parents' voices. "It does

Costly mistake

This week's announcement that the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce is suspending its operations could not have come at a worse time.

The local tourist industry desperately needs to find new ways to revitalize business but has now lost one of its most effective marketing tools.

Over the years the Chamber has provided the business community with a voice which was heard outside the county.

Without that voice, many businesses will not be able to reach the markets they need.

The county has promised, through its recently formed Economic Task Force, to direct the development of the local economy.

But with these efforts put on hold for a year, and no clear economic plan in sight, next summer could prove to be even slower than this year, regardless of any recovery from the recession.

The closure of the Chamber is a symptom of some unfortunate planning by county council.

Council slashed its contribution to the Chamber by more than 50 per cent and justified its actions by presenting the economic task force as an alternative.

But by cutting the Chamber adrift, and then putting economic planning on hold, the county created a marketing vacuum. The cost of this mistake to the local economy, which still depends on tourism, will certainly be more than the $32,000 saved from the Chamber's budget.

We can only hope that after the Chamber elections in October and the municipal elections in November, the two groups will be able to reach some agreement to overcome the current situation.

If the county is serious about economic development, it should follow through with concrete action. If not, it should provide the Chamber with the necessary means to carry

Drowning in a pair of deep brown eyes

I always used to envy old MacDonald and his perfect farm. There I'd be, trapped in some sweatshop of an office downtown, telephones ringing, editors ranting, doors slamming, typewriters yammering like Gatling guns...and I would imagine Old MacDonald, a shaft of wheat between his two front teeth, standing on his front porch and hitching at his overall straps as he surveyed his agrarian Kingdom.

With a moo moo here and a moo moo there,
Here a moo, there a moo...

Cows were what made me really envy Old MacDonald. Chickens were okay. Sheep and goats weren't bad. I could even stand pigs if the wind was right, but cows — ahhh, cows. What more could a man from life than the task of looking after a herd of cows? Milk 'em in the morning, put 'em out to pasture, bring 'em in and milk 'em again as the sun settles down for the night. It's a rhythm as old as the tides and as peaceful and non-violent as life gets on this planet.

Yep, Old MacDonald sure had it soft.

Or so I thought. Truth is, times have changed for Old MacDonald and his herd of Jersey's. For one thing, it's hard to find a Jersey cow anymore. Most far — sorry, most "milk producers" raise Holsteins now. The milk's not as tasty but there's more of it, and when she's finally milked out, the Holstein gives you more milk than the Jersey.

Mind you, The meat department of Old MacDonald's operation has changed too. Trendy consumers are turning up their noses at 'red meat' now — too high in fat and cholesterol. They're opting for turkey, halibut and other biological exotica that never spent a day in Old MacDonald's barnyard.

Then there's the rainforest syndrome. Somehow, poor old Bossy has been fingered as the culprit responsible for the disappearing Amazonian rainforest. The argument (and a tortured one it is) goes that the greedy (more on page 7)

Plenty to do in the Haliburton Highlands

Editor:

Every so often one of our "out of county" friends asks us what we "DO" up here in the country and as we take stock of the many activities, we are reminded of the advantages of rural living.

These past few months have seen a successful Artists Festival, Rotary Carnival, Museum activities and the Haliburton County Fair. Even when some of these events are not covered fully in the community newspaper, they have still proven to be a success. That achievement is attained through an incredible amount of volunteer hours. This summer's baseball season for the youth in our community ended with a tournament with the atmosphere of a gigantic family picnic.

Hats off to all those people (yes, usually small dedicated groups) who, by their efforts, make our community a great place to raise children and add to the quality of life. Your time and energy are noticed and very much appreciated. Thanks to each and every one of you.

Sincerely,
Wendy M. Ladurantaye,

POSTAL STRIKE

The possibility of disruption in postal service is looming in the near future. The Times has prepared a number of contingency plans if postal service is stopped.

- (A) When the last major postal strike occurred, Haliburton County post offices continued to operate providing limited local service (including rural route delivery). If the local post offices are operating, The Times will be delivered to the post offices for distribution through these facilities: (Minden, Haliburton, Carnarvon, West Guilford, Eagle Lake, Gooderham, Wilberforce, Kinmount, Norland and Coboconk).
- (B) If the local post offices are closed, newspapers for subscribers serviced by the above post office will be available at The Times office (from noon Monday). Only the current address copies will be available for distribution through our office. All unclaimed copies will be held and sent when regular postal service resumes.
- (C) Subscribers NOT served by the post offices named above: your newspaper will be held at The Times office and forwarded to you upon the resumption of regular postal service.

We apologize for the disruption which may result from the anticipated postal strike.

Cows fingered in global warming plot

Brazilians cut down the rainforest to create pasture land to graze cattle to turn into hamburger patties to sell to the greedy North American customers lined up in front of that other, more modern MacDonald's — the one with the Golden Eyebrows.

Beats me how the hapless cow turns out to be the bad guy in that equation. Seems to me she's the fallgirl, if anything.

Some environmentalists are claiming that bovine ecological irresponsibility extends beyond the mere planet. According to these alarmists, Old MacDonald's cows—those sweet natured, wouldn't-harm-a-fly, cud-chewing, tail-twitching cows—are in fact tooting out enough methane gas to punch huge holes in the earth's precious ozone layer.

And to add insult to injury, cows face yet another attack from a wholly unexpected quarter.

Would you believe Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles?

There's a booklet put out by Random House called ABC's for a Better Planet, in which those psychotic terrapins Michaelangelo, Raphael et al., dispense environmental advice to kiddies. They tell the kids, among other things, that our cattle are injected with cancer-causing hormones and that they eat grain that could be fed to starving people.

Not surprisingly, Old MacDonald's descendants, which is to say the cattle producers of Canada, are a little upset over the anti-beef propaganda from the Heroes on the Half Shell.

I think they're taking the whole thing too seriously. I recommend the cattlemen adopt another cartoon character and his philosophy on life. I refer of course to Bart Simpson and his immortal maxim.

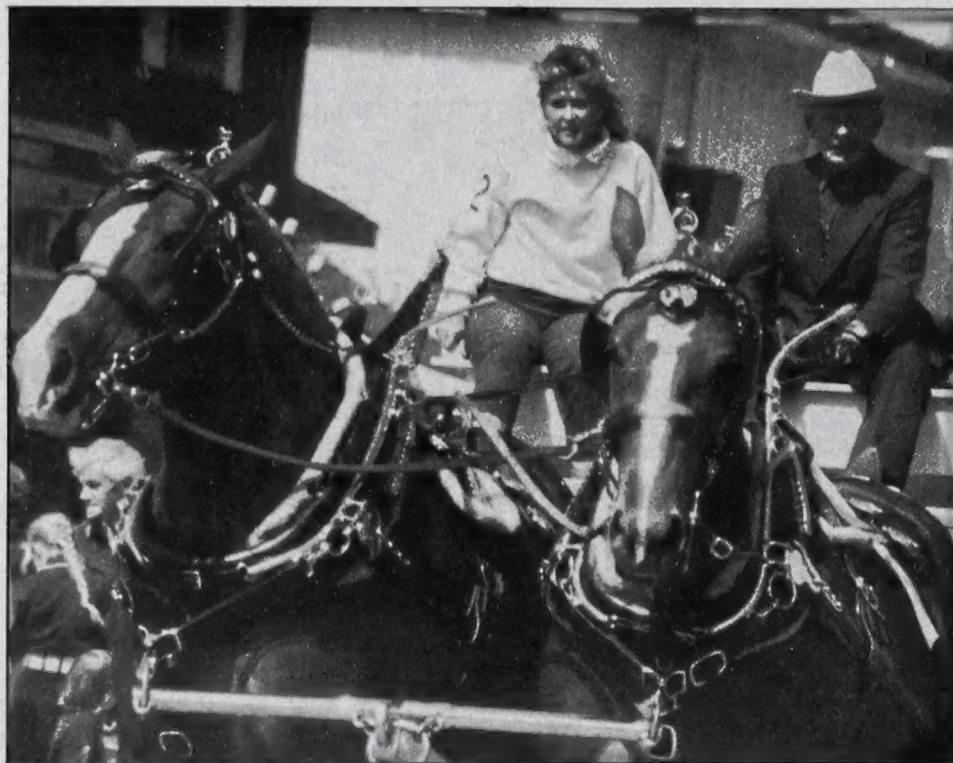

"Don't have a cow, man!"

Fair Days in Kinmount

The sun shone and the temperatures returned to their usual autumn values as the community of Kinmount played host to thousands this past weekend for the annual Fall Fair. One of the most popular fairs in the province, the event provided an interesting glimpse at many aspects of rural life. The photographs on these two pages capture a small taste of the excitement and fun of the weekend.

landowners be charged $25 an acre.

"I'm not 100 per cent happy," says Davis, "but this isn't unusual in negotiations."

At least Davis can find solace in the fact that the new agreement gives landowners a far better break than the ministry's initial proposal.

"When we started, the ministry wanted to charge $120, but we got down to half of that," he says.

The ministry wants landowners to take on a larger portion of the spray program cost because of fiscal restraints, states a press release.

"I'm pleased that both sides have negotiated an agreement with a cost-sharing formula that will reduce the costs to the provincial taxpayers of this program," Natural Resources Minister Bud Wildman is quoted as saying.

Davis feels this tactic will backfire in the end, because the gypsy moth caterpillar will flourish in infested areas which aren't sprayed.

"Without the right controls now, the gypsy moth is going to spread," says Davis. "If they allow it to spread, it will cost more because more will have to be sprayed. In the long haul, he's not going to be saving the taxpayer anything."

To prove the effectiveness of the spray program, Davis says the largest gypsy moth caterpillar defoliation prior to this year occurred in 1986. "That number dropped outlandishly after spraying started in 1986," he says. "It doesn't eradicate, but it does control somewhat."

Davis says landowners must be encouraged to sign up for the spray program if their property shows signs of infestation.

"A lot of people think the gypsy moth is a joke, but they're no joke. Our trees are being heavily defoliated," he says.

"Forget about the money. We're doing this to prevent loss of trees. People's objectives should be to protect their property and protect their trees. We're trying to protect the beauty of our natural environment."

A biological insecticide called Bacillus thuringiensis (Bt) will be sprayed next spring on approved blocks of property, which are a minimum of 10 acres.

This means that, aside from the price hike, the program will basically run the same as last year's.

"I'm pleased that we managed to get the ministry to keep the terms of the plan the same for this year," says Davis. "In the next year, we will negotiate the term agreement for the following year."

The management committee has administered the ministry's gypsy moth control program for five years. Haliburton County has only been a member for just over a year.

Kilcoo hosts youth opera corps

by Susan Grober

The dining hall at Kilcoo Camp was uplifted with delightful harmonies when the Canadian Children's Opera Chorus performed on Friday.

The 63 boys and girls, aged 10 to 16, spent the week at the Lutterworth camp enjoying fun in the sun, and rehearsing for their part as the children's chorus of the Canadian Opera Company.

It was an unusual sight, as the chorus performed with lilting, angelic voices while dressed in typical camp gear such as cut-off jeans, T-shirts and sweats.

But the children's casual clothing didn't take away from the beauty of the music.

Conducted by John Tuttle, and accompanied by pianist Marilyn Scott, the chorus sang Songs of Awakening, composed by Michael Runyon, and three folk song arrangements by Ottawa composer Robert Fleming. They also performed an unrehearsed song, requested by Kilcoo staff — the chorus of The Rolling Stones' classic, You Can't Always Get What You Want. The chorus ended their performance with an original composition addressed to Kilcoo Director David Latimer called Dear Dave, an ode to the camp's great food.

The Canadian Children's Opera Chorus performed at Kilcoo Camp last Friday under the direction of conductor John Tuttle. The children stayed at Kilcoo last week to rehearse, and to enjoy the camp's many activities.

MVA decision delayed until after November vote

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The proposed market value reassessment of Haliburton County will likely be a dominant issue during this November's municipal elections.

Last winter county council voted to defer implementation of market value assessment to allow for further study and public input.

Last week Warden Carol Puffer told The Times that the county will not proceed with the issue until after the elections, allowing concerned property owners the opportunity to force the issue during the campaign.

"I can't see anything happening until after the election," said Puffer.

Late last year, the Ministry of Revenue completed a study on market value assessment and presented it to municipal politicians. In order for the changes to be implemented, they required approval from six of Haliburton's 10 municipalities and a majority vote at county council.

The proposed reassessment came under persistent attack by local lakefront associations and the Federation of Ontario Cottagers' Associations (FOCA). Critics feared a switch to market values, using 1988 as the base year, would result in sharp property tax increases for owners of waterfront property.

Some associations threatened to campaign against any councillor who supported the reassessment during the municipal elections.

Seven municipal councils passed resolutions to delay implementation of market value assessment and in February county council followed suit, deciding to defer reassessment until councillors had a chance to study the impact of the changes.

At the time of the vote, council said deferring market value assessment did not mean the issue was being abandoned and it was suggested that a series of public meetings be held in every municipality during the summer so residents could discuss the issue with the politicians.

With the summer almost over, the public meetings have never materialized although the topic did surface during lake association meetings.

Puffer says as far as the county is concerned, it is the responsibility of the individual municipalities to get the information to their ratepayers.

Prior to last February's vote, Bicroft was the only municipality in Haliburton County already operating under the market value system. Since the county-wide reassessment was turned down, Glamorgan has also adopted market value assessment.

If, after the November elections, the county decides to revive the proposed reassessment, last year's study by the ministry of revenue will require only minor changes to remain valid and could be used for adoption in 1992.

Roy Fegan of the ministry's regional assessment office in Lindsay, says the study will be updated to include any improvements to property which occurred in 1991.

"A new study will be prepared and presented, but it will remain virtually the same," said Fegan. "We're still aiming at 1988 as the base year and the study will be updated to reflect any building changes, but 90 per cent of the study itself will remain the same."

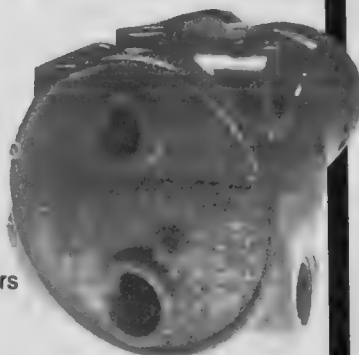

And even though properties in Glamorgan and Bicroft are already assessed at 1988 values, Fegan says the participation of those two municipalities will still be required in any decision to adopt the system county-wide.

Although property assessment in Bicroft and Glamorgan will not be affected by adoption of market values, Fegan says their share of the total county levy would decrease if other municipalities also made the switch.

Association told to resist re-assessment

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Municipalities in Haliburton County should resist any attempt to rush acceptance of market value reassessment, says the executive director of the Federation of Ontario Cottagers' Associations (FOCA).

Jerry Strickland was a guest speaker at last Saturday's annual meeting of the Lake Kashagawigamog property owners' association.

He told members that market value reassessment is a complex, controversial issue which will shift the tax burden onto owners of waterfront property.

"It's a location tax, and it is not to be implemented in haste," said Strickland.

Renfrew County adopted the market value system this year, and Strickland says lakefront residents are complaining of property tax increases of up to 300 per cent.

Last year the ministry presented a study on market value assessment to county council. If implemented the system would reassess the value of every property in the County for tax purposes, using 1988 as a base year.

In February, the county passed a resolution to defer implementation to allow councillors to study the impact of the changes and consult with the public.

County Warden Carol Puffer has said that the issue will not be dealt with until after the elections. (See story elsewhere in this issue.)

Strickland says increased property value does not reflect ability to pay increased taxes, and a change to market value assessment would hurt lakeshore residents living on fixed incomes.

He also took issue with the use of 1988 as a base year because it was a peak year in the real estate market. He suggested 1992 might be a more appropriate year on which to base property values.

Having dealt with the issue in other areas of the province, Strickland says the statistics provided by the revenue ministry can not be trusted. He says the ministry's predictions on tax increases resulting from market value reassessment are based only on municipal levies and do not take into account county or education levy increases which account for 80 per cent of the total tax bill.

Residents should urge municipalities to resist making an irreversible decision until after the findings of a provincial fair tax commission in two years.

The commission, which was formed in January, is looking at all aspects of taxation in the province with the goal of finding more equitable alternatives to the present system.

There were a number of other issues discussed at last Saturday's Lake Kashagawigamog property owners' association:

Dysart sewage plant expansion

John Puffer said there is not much to report about the proposed expansion. He said the municipality has approved a $100,000 study to gauge the impact of the expansion on water quality in the lake chain. The municipality is preparing a pollution

New board to decide future

"We don't have the manpower, so we can't pursue these events," said Stevens.

Although the Chamber will cease operations, Stevens says the organization will still exist and the executive will continue to meet. Coverage of businesses insured under the Chamber of Commerce Group Plan will not be affected by the office closure.

Stevens says the board of directors will also meet with the county to discuss economic development issues if requested.

The regular annual meeting will be held as planned this October at which point a new board of directors will be elected. A nomination committee, consisting of Godfrey Tyler, Dennis Casey and Shawn Hagerman has been established and any members interested in standing for election are encouraged to contact the committee.

It will be up to the new board to decide the future of the Chamber and Stevens said she has no idea what that decision might be. She said the outcome of the municipal elections in November will also play a part in determining the fate of the organization.

Minor ball season comes to a close with championship

The Minden Minor Baseball League wrapped-up its season with a series of championship games last Sunday.

The weather was hot, the sun was shining, and the players' enthusiasm was unbridled as kids filled Minden's ball diamonds for a day of friendly competition.

"It was the culmination of another great season," says Russ Duhaime, a member of the minor baseball executive.

Altogether, 370 kids took part in the Minden Minor Baseball League this summer.

Volunteers who helped with coordinating, coaching, and other duties, also helped pull the league together for its second successful year.

There are five divisions in the league: Junior T-Ball, Senior T-Ball, Mite, Squirt and Pee Wee.

In Junior T-Ball, the Kawartha Dairy team won over Jerry Harrison Trucking in the championship game. Northland Sales beat Dave's on 35 in the consolation round.

Senior T-Ball saw the Valu-mart team beat Carnarvon Lumber for the championship. In the consolation game, Sid Stamp Fuels beat B.J. Tree Service.

The Mite's Kinsmen team beat Minden IDA in the championship game. And Harding Iron and Metal won consolation over Home Hardware.

The Squirt champs were the Gull River Homecare team, beating James Howe Builder. The team sponsored by both G. Smith Construction and The Storeroom beat The Times team in the consolation game.

In the Pee Wee league, Russ Duhaime Photography beat Dave's on 35 in the championship game. Minden Slo-Pitch beat Dennis B. Willison Construction in the consolation round.

All the kids got pennants for taking part in the league.

Eight place canoe finish is Canada's best ever

Toronto racer Larry Norman raced to Canada's best-ever whitewater canoeing result with an eighth-place finish during the second day of World Cup competition in Minden on August 25.

Norman completed the 25-gate C1 (single canoe) course with 197.51 points as Gareth Marriott of Great Britain grabbed the gold medal with 179.71 points. Jon Lugbill of the United States was second with a score of 180.54 and fellow American Jed Prentice third with a score of 183.07.

Canada's Roy Sharplin of Edmonton also placed in the top-ten with a score of 201.03 giving him 10th place, a personal best in World Cup competition.

Norman, who upset Sharplin for the Canadian C1 title during the national championships on the Madawaska River on August 18, said the key to his first top-ten World Cup finish was the decision to take a riskier line at the top of the course.

"There were a number of different lines to take through the first for gates and the one I chose had serious consequences if I was unable to break into a small eddy at gate number four," said Norman. "Missing a gate there would have meant the race was a write off."

Norman's cousin Dan, of Ottawa, rounded out Canadian results with a 14th place finish.

In the K1 (single kayak) competition,

David Ford of Edmonton, Canada's top whitewater kayaker this year in World Cup competition, had to settle for an 11th place finish in a field of 36 racers.

Richard Weiss of the United States placed first with 167.25 points, followed by Ian Wiley of Ireland in second with 168.90 points and Richard Fox of Great Britain in third with 169.12. Ford scored 175.65 points.

"Competing in Canada, I was really hoping to do better, but I made one key mistake and it cost me," said Ford, who notched Canada's best-ever World Cup whitewater kayak result in July with a bronze medal at the World Cup in Augsburg, Germany.

"I went wide on a gate near the bottom of the course and it cost me about five seconds."

Ford said the Gull River course was the most challenging he has ever faced. "It was really tough. You had to be thinking all the way down from gate number one to number 25."

Rounding out Canadian results were Patrice Gagnon of Chilliwack, B.C. in 13th place and Francois Le Tourneau of Mont-Rolland, Que. in 21st.

The Canadian whitewater team competed in the final World Cup event last weekend in Wausau, Wisconsin. Next summer in Barcelona, slalom canoeing and kayaking makes its first appearance as an Olympic medal sport since the 1972 Summer Games in Munich.

Members of The Times team scramble for the ball during the first game of the Mite division tournament. Pictures of winning teams are on page 15.

control plan for the lake and Puffer said the association is monitoring developments and has asked for the opportunity to provide input.

Environmental plan

Mike Irwin presented a draft copy of an environmental plan for the lake association. The plan calls for residents of the lake to be educated on environmental issues, monitor development, engage all levels of government on relevant issues and promote a philosophy of responsible stewardship of the lake environment.

Land use planning

Glen Carter reported that the update of Dysart's official plan is encouraging and addresses the need for environmental preservation. Carter encouraged members to provide comments to the county planning department which is in the process of developing the goals for the county official plan.

The members approved the new slate of executive members. Glen Carter is the new president, Chris Walker is vice-president, Dick Parkinson is treasurer and Dawn Brohman is secretary.

Before the meeting, the association presented Ian Douglas, a representative of the county ambulance employees, with a cheque for $200 to be used for the purchase of a personal flotation jacket.

Douglas says the ambulance crews need the jacket because they are often called upon to conduct rescues on or near water.

The employees hope to raise enough money to purchase two jackets for each of the service's six vehicles.

The cost of buying the 12 jackets is about $1,600.

Ian Douglas, an employee with the Haliburton County Ambulance Service accepts a cheque for $200 from John Puffer, past-president of the Lake Kashagawigamog Association.

give them the will to live," she says. "And I think Karlynn has always had a strong will to live."

Previous to Karlynn's birth, Jackson lost her father. "It was very difficult for me, and it just made me fight even harder for Karlynn," she says.

"I never doubted she would make it. There was something inside of me, telling me, 'No, she would live.'"

To help stimulate Karlynn's eyesight, Jackson would cut out shapes from brightly coloured paper to place around the Isolette. She would also decorate for special days occasions such as Halloween and Christmas.

Karlynn couldn't feed when she was born because her bowels weren't developed, so she had to receive nutrition through tubes.

Eventually, she graduated to formula, which she still eats along with regular baby food.

When Karlynn's breathing improved, she was given low-flow oxygen through a tube in her nose.

"After a while I felt like she was deteriorating, because she was becoming dependent on it, so I made them take her off," says Jackson.

"After eight days she didn't require oxygen, and after 10 days I could take her home."

Karlynn weighed five pounds, four ounces, when the Jacksons finally brought her home. Having her at home proved to be very expensive. It was also scary for the new parents.

Just after four days, Karlynn got sick and couldn't eat. The liquid IV she required cost $12 a bottle.

Nurses came three or four days a week, staying for eight hour shifts.

When Karlynn could eat, her parents had to find a suitable baby formula. "Finally we found one she could go on, the only one in Canada, called Alactimil, and we can only buy it at Shopper's Drug Mart," says Jackson.

Still, the costs of keeping Karlynn at home don't match those of keeping her alive during those first few months in hospital.

"It cost over half a million dollars to have this baby survive," says Jackson.

Because Karlynn's lungs are damaged, the couple had to take a CPR course geared toward saving babies and young children before bringing their daughter home.

And Karlynn's father kicked his smoking habit. It wasn't easy, since he had smoked two packs a day for 20 years. "But he told me that Karlynn tried so hard to live for us, he wouldn't dare risk hurting her lungs now," says Jackson.

Since Karlynn was so small (she used to sleep on a folded diaper sized for premature babies), Jackson found it impossible to find clothes to fit her.

"Even most doll clothes were too small," she says. "Then we found she could fit in Cabbage Patch Premie Doll clothes. And Gord's mom is a knitter, so she helped us out a lot."

Now Karlynn wears clothes for six-month-olds. She loves to dress up in ruffles and lace, and laughs when she sees herself in the mirror, all dressed up in a frilly bonnet.

She's not shy, and is open to meeting new people. And she just loves the water, especially splashing around in Peach Lake.

Karlynn likes watching kids on television, and when music is played she shakes her behind to dance along. She is lulled to sleep when her father plays his electric guitar.

To see Karlynn racing around the floor, playing with her toys, and talking to her budgie, Sam, one realizes how this little girl is full of life.

"She's getting demanding," says Jackson, "because she wants to do everything she sees the bigger kids do, but she's just not strong enough yet."

"She's always ahead. She wanted out ahead of time, and she wants everything else ahead of time, too. She's got a mind of her own."

Karlynn is gaining about a pound a month, and should grow to average size by the time she's two-and-a-half, or three.

She still has to visit various different doctors on a regular basis, to test her eyes, motor skills, hearing, and growth rate.

"All her checkups have been very good," Jackson says. "And they give us good hope for good vision in both eyes."

Karlynn's next visit to Mount Sinai Hospital won't be for any tests, though.

"On her first birthday, we're going to go in with a cake for the nurses and doctors," says Jackson. "They'll just be thrilled with that."

It certainly will be a special birthday for Karlynn Jackson, who managed to beat great odds to become a miracle of life.

PineStone celebrates 15 years of growth

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Haliburton County's largest resort celebrated its 15th anniversary in style last weekend.

The PineStone Inn hosted a barbecue on Saturday, offering guests tables laden with food, live entertainment and a fireworks display.

For dessert, Scott Lewis of the resort kitchen staff spent 14 hours preparing a 15-square-foot cake depicting the PineStone's 18-hole golf course.

General Manager D'Arcy McKittrick says the resort was completely booked weeks in advance of the event. Attending the barbecue were long-time guests (more on page 19) of the resort, local shareholders and members of the staff.

Members of PineStone's kitchen staff prepared a wide variety of foods for the guests who attended the 15th anniversary barbecue on Saturday.

"It is a way to end the summer and show our appreciation to the staff," said McKittrick.

In the 15 years since it opened, the PineStone was grown from 36 rooms to 118 rooms and has added convention and banquet facilities.

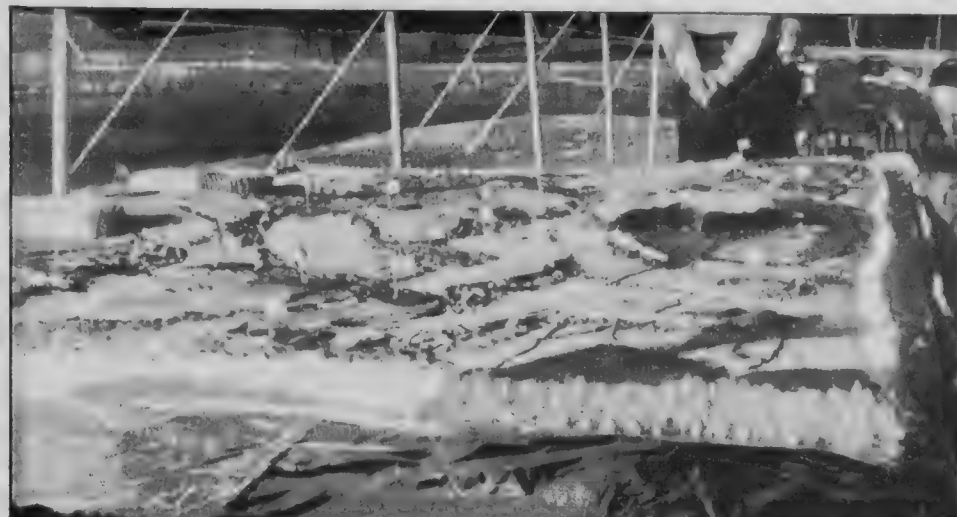

McKittrick says the resort has matured over the past few years and is improving its profile in the tourism industry.

"We're building a presence in the market," he said. "About half of our business is now conventions and seminars. Many blue chip companies now consider us their home away from home."

Predicting the PineStone has a solid future ahead of it, McKittrick says the focus is now on increasing occupancy and fine tuning the operation.

This cake depicts the PineStone Inn's 18-hole golf course.

Landowners have until end of Nov. to apply for gypsy moth spraying

by Len Munt
Forest Health
Coordinator

The gypsy moth program will be continuing in 1992. A one-year agreement was reached on Thursday, August 22. The Gypsy Moth Management Committee fought hard and long to bring the price down to a level more in line with last year's price of $6/acre, but the Ministry of Natural Resources won out in the end.

The program will run the same as it did last year with one difference — the price! Last year a landowner could have his property aerially sprayed for $6/acre. This year the price had gone up considerably. A property owner will now pay $60 for the first three acres and for any additional acreage a sliding scale will come into play. (See table below).

0 - 3 acres = $60 flat
4 - 15 acres = $15 per acre
16 - 50 acres = $10 per acre
50 acres or more = $1 per acre

For example, to spray an 18-acre parcel of land the price would be $270. You must work your way through the sliding scale.

A question was asked: "What if an association applies as one landowner to reap the benefit of the large acreage and the sliding scale?" The answer is, if an association would like to put the applications together and collect the money as an association, that is great, but each property owner must apply and pay for the acreage they own. It cannot be grouped as if the association owns the property. For example, if an association has 10 one-acre property owners then the cost will be 10 X $60 = $600. This policy was made clear by the Ministry of Natural Resources at the last Gypsy Moth Management meeting.

The rest of the program will be run just like last year. The criteria of 1250 egg masses per hectare and a 10-acre continuous spray block must be met.

The first question you must answer is: "Do I have a problem with gypsy moths?" Walk your property and scrape the egg masses you see off your cottage, trees, rocks etc. If this job seems impossible, measure a square block about 10 meters by 10 meters. In this square, count the number of egg masses you see. If this number is about 12 to 17 egg masses, it is time to get an application and rally your neighbours to do the same.

You can pick an application up at your local township office, Colour Your World in Haliburton or the County office in Minden. I have also mailed an application to everyone who applied last year. These applications went out before the mail strike, so hopefully they made it through. Fill the application out in full. Remember to attach a copy of your tax bill, a map of the property, and a cheque in the proper amount. Send all of this to the County building in Minden. (See address below).

You must also keep in mind the other criteria when applying. You have tried to cover the first by actually checking your property for the gypsy moth, now you must get your neighbours to notice the problem. Inform your neighbours about the insect and the numbers you have found. Get them to check their property and fill in an application. There must be 100 per cent cooperation between neighbours for the program to be successful. As soon as you are sure you have that magic number of 10 acres or more, send in your application.

THE APPLICATION DEADLINE IS NOVEMBER 30, 1991

While you are handling the paper work, the Ministry of Natural Resources (Minden office) and I will be conducting egg mass surveys confirming the 1250 egg masses per hectare criteria. If you do not make the 1250 mark, the money you sent in will be returned with a letter stating why you were disqualified from the program. I will also inform you of other alternatives your group can take, such as a private spray applicator.

If you have any questions about the program please feel free to write or call: Leonard Munt, Forest Health Coordinator, Box 399, Minden Ont., K0M 2K0, 705-286-1333.

Just ducky!

Hundreds of yellow ducks, some on their sides, others bobbing along with big grins on their beaks, drifted down the Gull River Saturday as the Minden Lions and Lioness Club held their second annual rubber duck race. Each of the yellow bath tub toys carried a number corresponding to a ticket purchased by a club supporter. A large crowd gathered on the shores of the river to watch the race and cheer on their favourites. Some of the spectators followed the progress of the ducks from their launch point, at the bend in the river opposite Campbell's Garden Centre, to the finish line at the government dock. The first duck across the line, numbered 452, was sponsored by Debbie Hanna of Oakville. She wins $300. Second place went to Joan Taylor of Minden with number 76. Her prize was $200. Third place went to Barb Dawson of Minden with quacker number 491. Her prize was $100. As the crowd of spectators looks on, the race winner is held aloft by one of the race organizers floating in the river, moments after it completed the dash to the finish line.

MNR hurt by underfunding:OFAH

by the OFAH

Queen's Park has given such a low priority to fish and wildlife conservation that Ontario's treasured outdoors are at risk, the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters told a provincial budget committee in Kingston last week.

In fact, spending cuts directed against the natural environment have become so severe that thousands of jobs and the province's wildlife future are threatened, Rick Morgan, OFAH vice president, told Ontario's standing committee on finance and economic affairs.

Morgan proved his point with statistics indicating that while the province's spending has increased by over 60 per cent over the past five years, the budget for the Ministry of Natural Resources--the agency charged with conserving the natural environment--has gone up by only 18 per cent.

"The ministry is underfunded, understaffed and overstressed," Morgan said. "They're not even getting enough to cover the cost of inflation. And the same level of stress on the ministry is beginning to take effect in our forests and waters."

Wetlands, forest management, poaching enforcement, wildlife stock assessment, fish restocking and research are just a few of the items suffering because of a lack of ministry funds, he said.

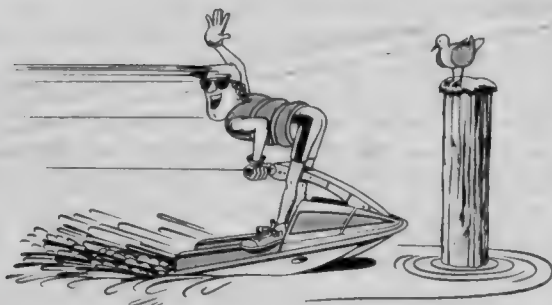

Morgan said the government cannot justify the ministry's tiny $59.4 million fisheries budget, because anglers alone contribute $105 million to the province each year through fishing licences and sales tax. The MNR wildlife budget is even smaller.

"Fish and wildlife budgets not only preserve our quality of life, they are investments in industry and tourism," he said. "Spending on fish and wildlife programs are investments in industry and tourism," he said. "Spending on fish and wildlife programs are the guarantees of sustainable development, an assurance of a healthy, prosperous future for millions of Ontarians."

The province's committee charged with examining the government's latest budget must demand that fish and wildlife budgets be substantially elevated and given the priority they deserve, Morgan said.

The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters is the province's largest conservation organization and represents 74,000 members and 470 affiliate clubs.

Putting the brakes on growth

Exponential growth is a mathematical expression describing the steady increase over time of anything such as pollution, population, disease, resource use, manufactured products, and so on.

The necessity to do everything possible to maintain a steady increase in the economy is an unquestioned assumption by politicians and the business community. But the economy is ultimately based on the finite resources of the planet - air, water, soil, living things.

University of Colorado physicist, Albert Bartlett, has pointed out that it is impossible to maintain exponential growth of anything indefinitely because we live within real limits of the finite physical world and to think otherwise is a destructive mindset.

Anything growing exponentially will double within predictable intervals - a one-per-cent annual growth will double in 70 years, two per cent in 35 years, 3 per cent in 23 years and so on.

Bartlett illustrates the impossibility of maintaining endless growth using the example of an imaginary test tube culture of bacteria.

At 11 we inoculate a test tube of culture medium with a single bacterial cell which will undergo exponential growth by doubling every minute. So at 11 the test tube contains one cell, at 11:01 there are two, at 11:02 there are four and so on. The culture is on a 60-minute cycle so at 12, the tube is full and the food depleted.

When is the test tube only half full (or half empty depending on whether you are an optimist or a pessimist)? The answer, of course, is at 11:59. If you were a bacterium in that culture, when would you sense a space or overpopulation problem?

Reflections

by David Suzuki

At 11:58, the tube would be a quarter or 25 per cent full, at 11:57 it would be 12.5 per cent full and so on. If a bacterium were to say to its mates at 11:55, "I think we're running out of space," chances are he'd be laughed out of the tube - any sensible bacterium could see that 97 per cent of the tube was empty and besides, they had already been around for 55 minutes. Yet they'd only be five minutes from filling the test tube!

Suppose, like people, that bacteria only acknowledge an impending crisis at 11:59. So, like humans, they desperately fund scientific megaprojects to come up with a solution. And suppose the bacterial experts deliver - in less than a minute, they synthesize three test tubes of food.

That is a phenomenal achievement - three times the previously existing supply! (Can you imagine how reassured we'd be if we made such a find of oil or food in the ocean?)

How much time would the bacteria now have? At 12, the first tube would be filled, at 12:01, the second would be occupied and at 12:02, all four would be packed!

Quadrupling the amount of food and space would only buy two more minutes if growth continues at the same rate. In our world, no amount of scientific mega-effort will be able to add more than a few percentage points of increase in food production, land and resources. And many scientists believe we are well past the 59th minute.

Within the lifetimes of our children, the fate of our species will have been decided. Plots of curves over the entire period of our species' existence of human activity such as our population, destruction of soil and forests, pollution, are virtually flat for 99.9 per cent of that time.

Only in the past few decades, the lines leap straight up off the page. They cannot continue and they will level off and turn downward. The only question is whether we will bring them down deliberately or let Nature do it for us.

It is remarkable how deeply we have come to believe that greater consumption and economic growth are absolutely essential to maintain our "quality of life."

So to speak of aiming for zero growth, to say nothing of cutting back, is regarded as an outrageous heresy or an impractical urge to turn back the clock and live more "primitively."

Yet in my childhood during the 1940's we had far less of everything (my family of six lived on less than $1,500 a year) while our lives were rich and rewarding. And we had central heating, running water and electricity.

The consequences of relentless exponential growth are undeniable. Bartlett warns us that we will only get off our destructive rampage when we recognize the folly of the worship of mindless growth. It is nonsense to think that our current rate of consumption cannot be reduced, it has to be.

Indeed, I believe our excesses have contributed to the breakdown in our society, minds and bodies and the quality of life will improve when we make do with less.

Growth has become the reason governments and society exist, so there can be no end to it. But when will we ever have enough?

Grant offsets property taxes

by Doreen Hawman

The Ontario Property Tax Grant provides an annual rebate to eligible Ontario seniors to help offset the cost of their property tax or rental payment. The grant is based on 100% total annual property tax, or 20% total rent paid on an eligible principal residence, up to a maximum of $600.00.

The grant is paid in two installments. The spring payment equals 50% of the previous year's entitlement and is paid automatically without application. The fall payment is based on an application form which is mailed automatically to most Old Age Security recipients.

Applications for the fall portion are now in the mail. If you have not received your application for the balance of your 1991 payment, contact your nearest Information Centre for guidance.

In Haliburton the centre is open Monday - Friday 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. or call 457-2733.

For residents of Minden and surrounding areas, the centre located in the Municipal Building, Milne Street., is open Monday and Tuesday, 10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. or call 286-4100.

If you live outside the toll-free area, please call collect.

Barbeque tips from a smoke-eater

The wife really likes a good barbecue. That's because what makes it good is that I do all the work. I stand out on the deck with the swarming mosquitos, or pouring rain or begging dogs, slowly turning myself into smoked meat while the wife and guests chat, laugh and have a merry old time inside. I find every excuse to get back in and join the party, but someone always yells "Fire!" and they all look at me like I'm a leper, so I feel obliged to go out again to see if anything on the grill still looks edible.

The odds aren't good, considering foot-high flames and fire extinguisher residue. Also, I'm a horrible chef. But I approach it professionally. I have all the tools, the books, the apron, hat and mitts. And I've taken courses. Even one given by the fire department.

My theory is that the essence of barbecuing harkens back to cave men squatting around a fire pit. There's a certain macho spirit in the hunt, the chase, the kill and the feast. Who cares if the meat is dirty, bloody, hairy or all hacked up - that's what burning is for. Cave women must have stuck to roots and berries, because their contemporaries prefer salad and fruit to my burnt offerings.

It's crowded around the barbecue. The dogs are always lying right where I need to stand. Then there's the loose shelf hanging off each end, plus the table and deck railing I use for my array of tools, condiments, spices, sauces, dishes and emergency supplies. With a drink in one hand, I use the other to wield an oversize spatula to swat flies and flip meat.

I never remember to clean the grills, but that's fine

The Intrepid Cottager

by Craig Nicholson

because the crusty build-up narrows the spaces through which pieces usually fall to burn faster than the rest. I'm always mining around in the coals for some lost morsel.

And that's more difficult now that smoking's all the rage - mesquite chips or hickory chips scattered on top of the coals - each with its own delicate aroma. I prefer pressboard chips from the old outhouse; they are free and there's so much smoke I can't smell anything anyway. For some reason, the smoke always blows in my face.

My automatic starter has never worked properly, especially when I run out of propane. Condensation is supposed to show the level in the tank, but I've poured a whole bucket of cold water over it and I can never predict when it will be empty. So I barbecue fast. On high. Standing in my puddle of water.

The cave men were more comfortable.

My lid won't stay up and gets stuck when it's down. the handle comes off in my hand. One side is cool, the other is Hades. If I flip my spatula too hard, the meat disappears down a gaping maw or over the deck rail into the sand. If I do squish a fly with it, I either have to wipe it off on pant leg or meat and I prefer clean clothes.

If I do cook without flare-ups for 10 or 15 minutes, then I'll slip inside for 30 seconds to get a refill and return to the towering inferno. Out comes my trusty spray bottle to drench the flames with water and send great billowing smoke signals to whatever tribes may be in the area. Everyone is so surprised that my barbecuing always tastes steamed.

The wife wants me to barbecue all the time. I don't know why - she never eats meat. But I oblige, even in the dead of winter, when the barbecue is set up in the boat house with all doors open. I can't quite picture those cave men huddled in the dark cooking in sub zero temperatures. I bet they settled for roots and berries. And they didn't have life jackets that smelled like teriyaki sauce the next summer.

Barbecuing in the summer is the most trying. That's because I'm trying to hold my drink, spatula and umbrella simultaneously. And the rain never starts until after I get everything on the grill. Then I'll hear the wife from the kitchen: "Honey, it's raining out!". She lets the dogs in and I stand there dripping wet with soggy meat.

The best part of barbecuing is that I can hide all my mistakes. Cheap cut? Burn it. Too much sand? Burn it. Fly remnants? Burn it. By careful manipulation of the three degrees of burning, I can make everything look and taste the same. Smother it in garlic sauce, or Tabasco or teriyaki or sweet and sour - or if it's a lost cause, all of them - and the guests will either not notice or not eat.

Kids' Korner

by Jean Lacey

Hi Kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

A: The lion.

Q: Why don't monkeys live on the moon?

A: Because there are no bananas there.

Your choice: black, black, or black

Those who order theirs rare were a problem until I realized that a dog can lick meat just as clean as a flame.

When the meat's black enough that I know it's done, it's time for the grand entrance. I flip it onto a platter and pick up the pieces on the ground. Then I yell: "Ready!" and march to the dining room table where there is already so much other food that I have to clear space. The wife always makes so much I don't know why I bother barbecuing.

Then, like my cave man ancestors, I sit down to my own wild feast. The hunt, the chase, the kill The wife interrupts my reverie: "Honey, when are you going to barbecue something other than hot dogs?"

As soon as I remember the steaks.

Residents take part in annual Fair parade

Saturday August 17, 1991 was an unusual day for the residents of Hyland Crest. We were entered in the Haliburton County Fair Parade. At eleven o'clock we were on the bus and on our way to the line up for the parade. We were the lead entry. While we waited the bus was decorated and we had a hearty lunch. Rheta Jones, Administrator, led distributing candy, followed by Lynn Shirley, Dietary Supervisor, and Linda Fry, Adjuvant, carrying banners. They were wearing old fashioned gowns and bonnets. At the rear of the bus Muriel Harrington and Janke Thomas carried a banner and wore our 25th year anniversary T-shirts. Clowns etc. followed the bus. Our costumes took 1st prize. Ursula Neitch played the accordion on the way to the fair grounds. Thank-you, Ursula. Thanks Wayne, for helping Doris Robertson, our driver, without whom we would be grounded, park at the grounds and the volunteers who helped the residents at the Fair. We were there till two o'clock and we were ready to go home and rest.

Sunday night Chapel Service was taken by Jack and Ruth Foster because Rev. John Burgess was still in the hospital. Jack and Ruth sang (we followed) and played the guitar accompanied by Alice Jones on the organ. The residents really sang out and thanked Jack, Ruth and Alice very much.

Monday we had a discussion period on nursery rhymes, cakes and pies. In the evening Tom McAllister showed films "Nahanni" a river in Wales, "Portrait of a Whale", "New Zealand, Land and People". I thought I knew all about Wales but I found I could learn more.

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

Tuesday the Haliburton County Public Library Generic Theatre was here for the young and old. Eleanore Prokop and Michael Quinley put on a play, Beauty and the Beast. It wasn't exactly what we knew about but for only two players it was wonderful and brought out the point they were trying to put across. We thank them very much.

Thursday the ladies of Kinmount Catholic Church, Kate Allan, Ursula Neitch, Aileen Brown, Tita Lockheart, Ann Cane, Madeliene Pearson, Julie Pearson and Yulanda Hosak, brought the delicious tea and as we enjoyed it, Ursula Neitch played the accordion. The music has a soothing effect and makes a more sociable time together. Thank-you, Kinmount ladies.

At six o'clock Dianna Morris started a new book by Danielle Steele "Heart Beat" and we thank her greatly for reading to us. This was followed by Nancy and Mark Briggs, who are doing a great job calling for bingo. We are sorry Marg Prentice is not well at present and we do miss her.

August 23/91 was Happy Hour. The entertainment was provided by Mike and Connie Biagi, Frank Faulkner, Al Blanchard and Doris Robertson and we were cared for by volunteers Don and Ellen Holden, Janke Thomas and Bonnie Fullan led by Adjuvant, Linda Fry. Everyone enjoyed themselves and we sincerely thank the musicians and volunteers. Several of the residents from downstairs were present. One was Maizie MacIntosh who had her sister and her husband, Peggy and Ed Pettinger, to visit her.

Marie McPhail had Katherine Eggleton from Lindsay to visit her Friday.

New books in fall line up by Joel Levis, County Librarian

New books for Fall

The end of summer can mean many different things to different people. For some it means falling leaves, shifting docks, hunting dogs and getting kids ready for school. Others see it as a time to revive an interest in old hobbies, discover new ways to pass those long winter nights or just begin to catch up on their reading.

No matter what your thoughts are, your local branch of the Haliburton County Public Library is just waiting to help you on your way with a raft of new reading selections to get you off on a good start, no matter what your tastes may be. Here's a few of our particular favourites that may be of interest to you as the sun of Summer turns into the dusk of Fall.

For lover of biographies - and there are quite a few of you out there - we offer The Wonderful World of Liberace. One of the world's greatest entertainers takes you into his own personal life and shares many of the wonderful stories that made him so distinctive.

For lovers of art and art history, we suggest A Place in History: Twenty Years of Acquiring Paintings, Drawings and Prints at the National Archives of Canada complete with illustrations and plates.

For the genealogical set, Tracing Your Scottish Ancestry by Kathleen B. Cory will give you everything that you need to know if you really want to trace your elusive 16th cousin (thrice removed) who spent the summer of 1778 in the Lowlands.

For followers of our exclusive "Only in Canada"

Club, we offer Freefall by William Hoffer, the story of Air Canada Flight 143, a brand-new, fully automated jet that turned itself into a glider over Gimli after it ran out of fuel!

For concerned parents, Your Gifted Child by Joan Smutny provides interesting advice on the identification of special talents in childhood aged seven years or less.

For amateur radio operators or HAMsters, we have acquired the CARF study guide and the DOC Question Bank to help you on your way into the wonderful world of amateur radio and on the air!

For cooks and aspiring cooks, The Canadian Living Light and Healthy Cookbook has great tasting recipes ranging from grilled salmon to Tex-Mex Fritata. And we all know how good THAT is!

And the hits just keep coming! New books on model railroading, dieting, hiking, stamp collecting, recycling, the list goes on and on.

Minden resident Doug Brown was the lucky winner of the KEANEY CHRYSLER Solid Gold Match 'N Win promotion. Jeff Amodeo, Keaney Chrysler Service Manager presented Doug with his prizes which included an Igloo Cooler, two Cambridge Towels and two baseball caps.

"R-2000 construction includes air-tight vapour seals around windows and electrical outlets."

Oliver Drerup, R-2000 Spokesperson.

What to look for when buying a new home.

For the past 10 years I've studied building techniques to discover how to build a better home. A home that would meet the needs of today's energy and comfort conscious home buyers. What I learned was that one home — the R-2000 home — is your best choice. Why? Well, there are a lot of reasons. Here are just a few.

Superior Construction

- greater attention to detail prevents excess air leakage.
- continuous operating ventilation system offers superior indoor air quality all year round.

More Comfort

- reduces cold spots and drafts, with even temperature from attic to basement.

Lower Heating Costs

- the R-2000 home saves you money because it is more energy efficient than a conventionally built home.

Individually Inspected

- every R-2000 home is inspected and awarded a certificate if it meets R-2000 standards.

IN ADDITION, QUALIFIED PURCHASERS CAN RECEIVE A $2,000 REBATE FROM ONTARIO HYDRO.

Look for the R-2000 Excellence sign at your local builder.
The R-2000 home, it's the "Better-Built Home."

The R-2000 program is supported by: Ontario Hydro; Ministry of Energy; Energy, Mines & Resources Canada.

is now the best time to buy a genuine Simmons HIDE-A-BED?

Because....

- Cornerstone has a truckload full of factory-direct savings
- Prices that will never be repeated
- FREE delivery
- In-stock for immediate delivery.

Sarah

Plump, lush comfort is the highlight of this contemporary design. The over-stuffed style, camel back and bullet nose seat cushions to match, it makes a fashion statement.

Deborah

Only 60 1/2" long make this piece ideal for your guest room. Clean simple lines in a traditional mold. Throw cushions are standard.

Maria

Refined accents, the Deborah's deep, lush comfort comes from traditional styling that captures the imagination. Our most popular model.

Maria

Where function meets form for added comfort and elegance. Maria features a camel back style with extra-thick arm padding and two tone cushions.

by Jeanne Sears (call 286-1538)

Doraine Beatty of Don Mills, Audrey Bell, Meaford and Edith Vamplew, Whitby spent a pleasant week Doreen and Alfred Powell on Little Horseshoe Lake.

Jim and Pearl Foster of Carnarvon with to announce the marriage of their daughter Joyce to Steve Porter son of Dr. Terry and Andrea Porter of Barrie. They had a pretty lawn wedding on Sat. August 17, 1991. Friends and relatives helped then celebrate with a dinner and dance. They will be living in Barrie. Steve will start his teaching career. Edith Burch entertained Joyce with a miscellaneous shower. A money shower was also held in Barrie by their friends.

Winners at the weekly Monday euchres at St. Paul's Parish Hall on Aug. 26 were Joyce Hewitt, Nancy Gayton, Lone hands Marie Dennis. Next games are Monday Sept. 9th with a luncheon starting at 12 noon followed by cards.

Helen Burk visited Tim Burk at Sunnybrook hospital last week.

All good wishes to these people, Jack Prentice, Ruby Stevenson, Kelly Harrison, Linda Lennie, Bess Cox, Ann Burk and Alice Don.

Jane Symonds reports having enjoyed her holiday in Ireland and Scotland.

Winners at Wheels-to-meal luncheon euchres on Aug. 27 included Muriel Proctor, Ed Hisson, Mary Cassidy, lone hands Nelda Yakely and door prize Mary Cassidy. Next luncheon games at Minden Legion are Sept. 10, for reservations call 286-2908.

Winners on August 20th were Dorothy McIntyre, Ruth Varty, and Grace Smythe and for Aug. 27th Jack Croucher, Margaret Close and Ray Brown. The last bridge games at Stanhope Community Hall will be Sept. 3rd and then we will be moving to the newly renovated Club 35 on Sept. 10 at 1 p.m. The Drop-in bridges are on each Tuesday afternoon starting at 1 p.m. and welcome to all.

South Lake Trailer Camp had Hallowe'en Party on Aug. 24 with people in costumes and shell-out and a great time was enjoyed by all.

Nancy Bird, Chantelle McKnight and Laurie Smith have gone to enter Georgian College in Barrie as have Cecil Smith, Ken Beers and Paul Northey.

Michael McElwain and boys from Millbrook enjoyed a visit with his mother Dorothy McElwain.

Brian Schroter of Edmonton has been visiting with his parents Kit and Ralph Schroter for a few days.

Russel and Lilian Lindsay of Uxbridge visited in the area and called on his mother Mary Currah of Hyland Crest.

Beth Titus of Orillia had short holiday and visited her mother Bertha Hughes.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burke, Karen and Rodney of South Porcupine spent last week with his mother

Margaret Burke.

Candice Peacock of Petawawa have been a visitor with grand parents Ralph and Eleanor Young.

Anrea Donaldson and Andi of Harcourt spent last Saturday with grandma/great grandma Bessie Burk.

Orval and Lisa Heels and family of Midland visited with uncle Bob and aunt Audrey Vick recently.

Sincere sympathy goes to the family and friends of the late J.P. Nolan who did last week.

There are many birthdays at Hyland Crest in Sept. and list is as follows, Isabella Eastman Sept. 9, Gladys Kirkpatrick, Sept. 10, Nancy Carefoot, Sept. 12, Garnet Ash, Sept. 14, Annie Jones, Sept. 15, Mary Currah, Sept. 18, Ann Collison, Sept. 20, Cora Upton, Sept. 22, Marion Rose, Sept. 23, Mary Oliver, Sept. 26 and the last one will have her 102nd birthday.

Wednesday morning Bible Study goes on at St. Paul's Minden from 10 o'clock until 12, starting Sept. 4 with everyone welcome.

The County Museum committee and their staff have done an excellent job in arranging the interesting programmes over the summer but I felt that the Minden people showed little interest. If you haven't visited this summer the buildings will be open now only on Saturdays until Thanksgiving.

Tuesday will be a sad day for some mothers when their little ones go off to school and my feeling is that it is too bad such small tykes catch the bus so early in the morning and spend so much time on the buses.

Elva Deacon enjoyed a weekend with her sisters and especially being at the 100th Anniversary of Hartley Public School with a busy schedule of events.

STANHOPE SEN-IORS: Hot weather didn't slow them down. Last Wednesday they came to dance and dance they did in the lovely air conditioned firefighters hall. Cheese snacks, doughnuts and a never ending fruit punch supply kept them going as they all got on the floor for the tag dances and spot prizes. Coming up Wed., 7:30 p.m., Sept. 4. Euchre party at the hall $1.00. Sat. Sept. 7, 6:30 p.m. a big night. Dinner Theatre at Maple Sands starring Heather Scully, Debra Dart and Curtis Eastmure in "The Decorator" a British farce. Members just $20 for a great evening. Advance only 754-3457. Wed. Sept. 18, Parry Sound Boat Cruise. $25. return on luxury bus from Stanhope. Book now to avoid dissatisfaction. 754-3457. You wanted activities - keep them alive!

Club 35 Euchre - Aug. 26th. 50-50: Olive Daniels. Most Lone Hands: Bernice Partner. High Lady: Ellen Klok. High Man: Murray MacKinnon. Others: Claire Brown, Frank Clark, Velda Harrison. Starting Sept. 9th we will be returning to Club 35 for our Monday night Euchre. 7:30 p.m.

IN MEMORIAM

MISCIO,

BERNICE & ALFRED.

Bernice, July 16, 1989;

Alfred, September 2, 1989.

In loving memory of Dad and Mom.

God broke all our hearts to prove to us

He only takes the best.

And the best parents he did take from us

Just two years ago since that sad day

When the ones we loved were taken away;

God took them home, it was his will,

But in our hearts they will always be.

They were always there to guide

IN MEMORIAM

you along,

They were always there when you needed them.

You could talk to them about anything,

What we would give if we could say,

Hello Dad and Mom in the same old way;

To hear your voices, see your smiles,

To sit with you and chat awhile.

Nothing can be more precious, than the memories we have of you both.

To us you were so special,

God must have thought so too,

Your last parting wishes,

We would like to have heard.

And whispered in your ears,

We Love and will miss you both,

IN MEMORIAM

More than words can every say. Our last parting words Dad and Mom

Wherever your spirits have taken you,

We wish you both peace and happiness together,

And when old times we do recall, its then we miss you most of all.

In each one of us there is part of you both,

That no one can ever take from us,

We will Love and miss you both.

Always in our hearts,
Mike, Waneita, Teresa, June, Tony, Dona and spouses and grandchildren.
